To avoid the Imputation of publishing a Black List, the Names of those who promised to vote for Sir John Kaye and Mr Wentworth, and voted against both of them, and those who promised one Vote to Sir John Kaye or Mr Wentworth, and voted for neither, have not a Mark set upon them in the Poll; but if they insist upon Particulars, they shall be gratify'd; how far it will turn to their Honour they know best.

EDWARD THOMPSON, Esq;

One of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, and Member of Parliament for the City of York.

SIR,

HOEVER peruses these Sheets will soon find the Reason of their being dedicated to you; who are certainly the most concern'd in them. And indeed, as the Manuscript calls you to deal, it would be unpardonable to seek Protection for them from any other Quarter; neither can they have elsewhere so proper a Patron. If a right Use be made of them, they may save a vast Expence hereafter, by preventing all Opposition to You for the future; because they evidently shew how high an Opinion the Resident and Substantial Freemen of York have of your Integrity in the House of Commons; how great a Regard for your matchless Elocution; how warm a Sense of your innumerable Attempts to preserve our expiring Liberties; how just a Nation of the Rewards you have already met with for your eminent Services in that August Assembly; and, in a Word, how ready they are to demonstrate their Approbation of your inimitable Conduct on all Occasions: Never enough to be wonder'd at for its Steadiness and Uniformity.

And, now as we are upon this pleasing Topic, it cannot be improper to remark, to your eternal Honour, that during the long, long Time you have served in this public Capacity, one * Vote excepted, you have always zealously concurr'd with every Ministerial Measure, nor are we under any Apprehensions you ever will do otherwise; since, from your exquisite Skill in Maritime Affairs, and approv'd Behaviour in other Matters, you have obtain'd a Dignity in the Admiralty; a Trust, we are fully satisfied, great as it is, Upon the present Plan of Politicks, can never be repaid in one more capable of executing it to Content. This, Sir, tho' it has the Air of Flattery, with which ordinary Dedications too frequently abound, is what we know to be so strictly true, that it would be sacrificing too much to your Modesty, to pass it over in Silence.

iv DEDICATION.

These Things, Sir, seriously consider'd, make it Matter of the greatest Amazement to us, that you should be so zealously oppos'd at your last Election.

Besides, whilst this new Preferment does but a bare Justice to your Merit, it agreeably discovers, what we ought never to conceal, the Wisdom and Penetration of our GRAND PILOT, and his uncommon Concern for the right Management of the useful Force of Britain, whereon so much depends at this Day. In saying this, we hope the Love of Truth has not betray'd us into an unnecessary Observation; notwithstanding that great Personage is already so completely known, both to his friends and Enemies, that all impartial Persons cry out with one Voice, Had we not, for above these twenty Years past, been bless'd with a Minister, of so able a Head, so pure a Heart, and undeni'd a Hand, at the Helm, as well as with many indefatigable, and determin'd Gentlemen, to execute his Orders elsewhere, 'tis unquestionable we shou'd have now seen our Publick Affairs in a quite different Situation.

Infinitely more, Sir, you're sensible might be said to the same Purpose, if it did not carry us too far from our principal Design of shewing at one View, by an Extract from the Poll, who had the Majority of the Residing, and consequently Substantial Freemen; since they are claim'd with equal Warmth by both Parties, as appears from two Letters published in the London Papers.

And this we believe, without farther Preamble, will be clearly made out by the subsequent Lists.

People who voted as resident in this County. 345

Persons who voted as Residents in York, not being such, already discovered. 14

Persons who voted as Freemen, whose Names are not to be found in the City Books. 11

Total 555

Persons who promised to vote for Sir John Kaye and Mr Wentworth, and voted against both. 92

Persons who promised one Vote to Sir John Kaye or Mr Wentworth, and voted for neither. 125

This valuable Collection, Sir, tho' somewhat deficient for want of proper Information about many who voted as Residents in York not being such, as well as many bad Votes, clearly evinces the following Facts.

1. It proves, which must be ever remember'd to your Credit, how great your Majority is amongst the Residing and Substantial Freemen of this Place; and then,

2. It explains to us how serviceable a Set of Men the Fleet, the Army, the Excise, the Customs, the Windows, and, in fine, all Employments under the Government produce in your Favour, ready always, after your great Example, to exert themselves, for their their Country's Good alone. This is so evident a Truth, that whoever has the Reasonery to deny it, need only consult the other Poll-Books throughout the Kingdom for his Conviction, where he will find the very same Spirit of Liberty prevailing with the Servants of the State as in the first of the above Lists.

3. It declares with what Religious Zeal our sacred Teachers pursue the glorious Design of their Institution; and how far they are from being misled, by any ambitious Views, to desert the Paths of Peace, or prevent any of us from sitting, in the Prophet's Plough, under his Vine, and under his Figtree,

4. We learn hence, that the Desire of serving your Country in Parliament inspir'd you with such an unbounded Generosity, to give it no other Denomination, as surpriz'd all but those who had the publick Welfare at Heart with your self.

5. It points out the great Benefits of the military Power at most Elections in our Island, exclusive of their furnishing Voters, who mean the taking off the Burthen of a Standing Army from one Corporation for a Time, to engage the Votes of the Freemen, and thereby laying a double Load upon their Neighbours.

Don't think, Sir, that the Poll is publish'd with the same Design as one which came out seven Years ago, called the Black List. In this, you have a general View of all the Voters for this City, of what Trade, Denomination, or Local Abode farther, Alphabetically dispos'd; in the other a Set of Voters were drawn out and class'd under particular Trades, and those of one Side only, put together, no doubt, with Design to fatten them by starving their Neighbours. Our Design in this is very different from that pernicious Schema; here every Voter has alike Justice done him, and stands as openly as he did at the Place of Poll; else we could never have had the Presumption to put your Name at the Head of it.

But, least, Sir, we should take up too much of that Time which you have dedicated to the Service of the Public, in the honourable Post you have lately acquir'd; we shall conclude, with saying, We are sorry, on our own Accounts, that we are likely to lose, by it, so much of your Company in York, and in our Neighbourhood. Money spent in Hospitality amongst us, would do more Good than what is squander'd away at Elections; and you must excuse us, also, if we add, that out of the great Goodwill we bear you, we would wish, that you would exchange the Courtier for the Country Gentleman.

We are,

S I R,

Your very humble Servants and Wellwishers.
